Southern Illinois University
at Carbondale

Commencement

May 13, 14, and 15, 1994

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Arena or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Commencement

May 13, 14, and 15, 1994

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Distinguished Service Award

Ivan A. Elliott, Jr.

Ivan A. Elliott, Jr., a distinguished attorney in the State of Illinois for more than four decades, served as a member of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees from 1967 to 1991. During that time, he was chairman of the Board from 1973 to 1977, vice chairman of the Board from 1971 to 1972 and 1977 to 1978, and chairman of the finance committee from 1980 to 1991.

During his years of service on the Board of Trustees, Mr. Elliott represented the University on the Merit Board and the State Universities Civil Service System from 1968 to 1991 and served as chairman of the Merit Board twice—from 1969 to 1978 and from 1981 to 1991. He also served on the Illinois Board of Higher Education from 1973 to 1977, the board of directors of the Southern Illinois University Foundation from 1968 to 1991, and the executive committee of the foundation board from 1970 to 1991.

Mr. Elliott was born on October 31, 1923, in Carmi, Illinois. A product of the Carmi public schools, he took his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science with highest honors in 1948 and his Doctor of Law degree with honors in 1950 from the University of Illinois at Urbana. His scholastic honors include membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, and the Golden Key National Honor Society.

A practicing attorney with Conger and Elliott, Carmi, since 1952, Mr. Elliott has been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Illinois, the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court of Appeals of the 7th Circuit and the District Court of the Southern District of Illinois. He has been listed in The Best Lawyers in America from 1983 to the present.

Mr. Elliott is a member of numerous professional, civic, and church organizations and has published more than twenty professional articles. His business interests have included service as director of the First National Bank, Carmi, since 1974, director and president of the White County Abstract Company since 1966, and director of the Carmi Times Publishing Company from 1966 to 1974.

In nominating him for this award, Harry J. Haynsworth, professor and dean of the Southern Illinois University School of Law, described Mr. Elliott as “a distinguished lawyer who has served this University in a number of capacities, including chairman of the Board, for a long period of time”.

In recognition of his contributions to the University, the Board of Trustees, and the State of Illinois, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the Distinguished Service Award to Ivan A. Elliott, Jr.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Science

Ray W. Fuller

Dr. Ray W. Fuller, a Lilly research fellow and adjunct professor of neurobiology at the Indiana University School of Medicine, is recognized by his peers as "one of the top neuroscientists in the world," according to Dr. Ronald A. Browning, professor in the Department of Physiology at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, who nominated him for an honorary degree. "Although Dr. Fuller has made numerous contributions and discoveries that have enhanced our knowledge of brain chemistry, perhaps his crowning achievement," said Dr. Browning, "is his work that led to the discovery of Prozac (fluoxetine), which is currently the most widely used drug for the treatment of mental depression." Along with two other Eli Lilly and Company researchers, Dr. Fuller received the 1993 Discoverers Award for research leading to the discovery of Prozac, which was featured on the cover of Newsweek in 1990 as a "breakthrough drug for depression."

A native of Southern Illinois, Dr. Fuller was born on December 16, 1935, in Don-gola. He holds two degrees from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale—the Bachelor of Arts degree in chemistry in 1957 and the Master of Arts degree in microbiology in 1958. He received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in biochemistry from Purdue University in 1961 and an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Purdue in 1990. He is a member of Sigma Xi and Phi Lambda Upsilon honor societies and received the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale Alumni Achievement Award in 1986.

Dr. Fuller is affiliated with a number of professional societies, including the American Society of Biological Chemists, the American Society for Neurochemistry, the American Chemistry Society, the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, the Society for Neuroscience (past president of the Indianapolis chapter), and the International Society for Neurochemistry. His scientific service has included serving on the editorial boards of a dozen scientific journals, refereeing scientific papers for fifty-eight journals, reviewing grant applications for national agencies including the National Institutes of Health, and chairing international neurochemistry symposia. Dr. Fuller is also the author of more than four hundred full-length scientific publications and has published a similar number of abstracts from presentations at scientific meetings.

Concluding his nomination of Dr. Fuller for an honorary degree, Dr. Browning had this to say: "In summary, Ray W. Fuller exemplifies all that we would want our undergraduate and graduate students to strive for. Few individuals in the world can achieve what he has accomplished, but he is an excellent role model for those who strive to be the best they can."

In recognition of his numerous and significant contributions to the fields of physiology, neurochemistry, and pharmacology, and particularly of his role in discovering Prozac, the most widely used drug in the treatment of mental depression, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to award the honorary degree, Doctor of Science, to Ray W. Fuller.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Humane Discourse

Brian P. Lamb

Brian P. Lamb, chairman and chief executive officer of Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network (C-SPAN), founded the television network in 1979 and has shepherded its growth to the point where its two channels now serve more than sixty million cable households twenty-four hours a day "with a daily, unedited chronicle of the nation's public life," according to a recent New York Times Magazine story by Thomas J. Meyer. "C-SPAN's technique—self-styled "video verité"—is simply to turn on the cameras and let them run, providing viewers with uncut proceedings of the U.S. Congress and its committees, marathon gavel-to-gavel broadcasts of political conventions, wide-ranging coverage of presidential campaigns and political think-tank panel discussions, showing life as it happens, without commentary, spin or editing," Meyer wrote. The broadcasts are uninterrupted by commercials. They are paid for by local cable companies, which offer the service as part of a package of news and entertainment programs.

In nominating Mr. Lamb for an honorary degree, Dr. Joe S. Foote, professor in the Department of Radio-Television and dean of the College of Mass Communication and Media Arts at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, recalled: "In the beginning, C-SPAN was truly a one-man show. I remember meeting Brian in late 1979, when he ran C-SPAN from a spartan store-front office in an apartment complex in Arlington, Virginia." Foote pointed out how Lamb started with coverage of the United States House of Representatives and then branched out, going international, to cover the Canadian and British parliaments, the European Parliament, and the Japanese Diet. He is currently working to integrate C-SPAN into law, journalism, speech, and political science classes in American schools and colleges.

Mr. Lamb was born on October 9, 1941, in Lafayette, Indiana. He graduated from Purdue University in 1963 with a bachelor's degree in speech. After a stint in the Navy, he returned to Lafayette to work in television, then moved to Washington, D.C., where he worked as a freelance reporter for United Press International Audio, as a Senate press secretary, and as a White House telecommunications policy staffer. In 1974 he started publishing a biweekly newsletter, The Media Report, and then became Washington bureau chief for CableVision magazine. In 1977 he began seeking support from cable industry executives for what would eventually become C-SPAN. Starting with four staffers, it has grown to its present company of 170.

"Brian Lamb has not only developed C-SPAN into the crown jewel of the cable industry," Dr. Foote concluded, "but he has done so in a way that enhances the principles of representative democracy he holds dear. He would be an ideal candidate for an honorary degree from SIUC."

In recognition of his contributions to the field of telecommunications, particularly in substantially broadening the public's access to wide-ranging, unedited television coverage of national and international political activity, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree, Doctor of Humane Discourse, to Brian P. Lamb.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

August 6, 1994

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Arena or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Commencement

August 6, 1994

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

May 12, 13, and 14, 1995

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Arena or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Doctor of Humane Letters

Professor Charles Richard Johnson

Professor Charles Richard Johnson of the University of Washington at Seattle is an American novelist, short-story writer, essayist, and cartoonist. A writer whose balance of philosophy and folklore has been praised since the publication of his first novel in 1974, Johnson gained prominence when his novel Middle Passage won the National Book Award in 1990. He noted, in accepting the award, that he was the first black male to win the prize since Ralph Ellison was cited for The Invisible Man in 1953.

Born in 1948 in Evanston, Illinois, Johnson began his career as a cartoonist, and had his work published when he was just 17. His two collections of cartoons, many of which were published first in the Daily Egyptian at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, were acclaimed for their subtle, but pointed, satire of race relations. Their success led to Charlie's Pad, a 1971 public television series that Johnson created, co-produced, and hosted.

As an undergraduate at SIUC, Johnson studied under prize-winning novelist and literary theorist John Gardner (Sunlight Dialogues, Nickel Mountain, October Light). Gardner's concept of "moral fiction," demanding from the author a near-fanatical commitment to technique, imagination, and ethics, deeply impressed him. Johnson earned a bachelor's degree (1971) and a master's degree (1973) at SIUC. He published his first novel, Faith and the Good Thing, in 1974, while starting work on his Ph.D. in phenomenology at the State University of New York at Stonybrook.

His other principal works are: Black Humor (cartoons, 1970); Half-Past Nation-Time (cartoons, 1972); Oxherding Tale (novel, 1982); The Sorcerer's Apprentice (short stories, nominated for the PEN/Faulkner Award, 1986); Being and Race: Black Writing Since 1970 (essays, 1988); and Middle Passage (1990).

Johnson's works-in-progress include Dreamer, a novel about Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights movement, and the philosophy of non-violence, soon to be published by Scribners; and The Black Male in America, a forthcoming book of essays on the current plight of young African-American males that he will co-edit with John McCluskey Jr. for Indiana University Press.

Like Middle Passage, which chronicles the misadventures in 1830 of 22-year-old Rutherford Calhoun, a well-educated, mischievous, freed slave from Southern Illinois, Dreamer also embodies Johnson's love for Southern Illinois, this time specifically the area around Makanda.

Johnson is former director of the creative writing program at the University of Washington. In 1990 he was appointed Pollock Professor of English, the first endowed professorship in creative writing at the University of Washington. He is a Guggenheim Fellow and a National Endowment for the Arts Fellow. He is editor of The Seattle Review and is one of three nominating judges for the Pulitzer Prize in Literature. He has received the Writers Guild Award for his PBS drama, Booker. He holds an honorary doctorate from Northwestern University. From SIUC, he has received the Friends of Morris Library Delta Award (1970), Journalism Alumnus of the Year Award (1981), and the College of Liberal Arts Alumni Achievement Award (1991).

Johnson has contributed to the establishment of the Charles Johnson Award for Fiction and Poetry. The award was initiated by SIUC's Ricardo Cruz, assistant professor in English, who nominated Johnson for this honorary degree. Cruz wrote in his nominating letter: "As his accomplishments, passion, and commitment prove, Johnson is the kind of alumnus that our University can be proud to honor in the highest degree possible." In seconding the nomination, Richard F. Peterson, chairperson of the SIUC Department of English, wrote: "Granting Charles Johnson an honorary degree, inviting him to spring Commencement, and granting the first Charles Johnson Awards for Fiction and Poetry would be a wonderful moment for our University, one in which we honor one of our most distinguished alumni and reward the bright promise of talented student/writers."

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Commercial Science

Sandra Goeken Martis

Sandra Goeken Martis of Oak Brook, Illinois, president of In-Flight Phone Corporation and board chairman and CEO of In-Flight Phone International of Oakbrook Terrace, is a Chicago-area business executive who has taken an increasing role in supporting Southern Illinois University at Carbondale during the past years.

Goeken Martis' connection with the telecommunications industry dates back to the 1970s, when Goeken Communications began to develop Airfone, the nation's first air-to-ground telephone system. Since then she has become involved in every phase of building and running a global business, including coordinating and petitioning for worldwide frequency allocations.

In-Flight Phone is the only air-to-ground telephone company to provide each airline passenger with a seatback viewing screen and a telephone headset with full keyboard capabilities. FlightLink permits passengers to transmit and receive faxes; send data; play games; view city directories, airport maps, and airline schedules; shop; obtain reservations; and more. More than one thousand aircraft are so equipped. In-Flight Phone International has affiliations in Canada, Mexico, Europe, the Middle East, the Far East, and Australia.

In 1984, Goeken Martis was honored as one of the Outstanding Young Women in America. In 1992, President George Bush nominated her for membership in the Federal Communications Commission's Small Business Advisory Committee. Later, she was elected chair of the New Technology Subcommittee. She has addressed major national and international aeronautical telecommunications forums in Washington, D.C.; New Orleans, Louisiana; Palm Springs, California; San Juan, Puerto Rico; and London, England.

Her interest in SIUC began in 1984, when she accompanied her father, John D. Goeken, then president of Airfone, Inc., to the campus to see him receive the SIUC Entrepreneur of the Year Award from the College of Business and Administration (COBA). That same year she became a member of the COBA Advisory Board. In 1992, she served as president of the advisory board.

Now an adjunct professor in the College of Business and Administration, Goeken Martis was named SIUC's Chicago Business Leader of the Year in 1993.

She has served on the SIUC Chicagoland Advisory Council's student services committee, and on September 18, 1994, she was named chair of the Advisory Council. She presides over 22 volunteers from the Chicago area in enhancing Chicagoland fund-raising, public relations, and promotion of special events, such as the recent SIUC 125th Anniversary Gala, at which she served as master of ceremonies and also provided one of the prizes—a five-day, four-night vacation at her family's villa in Acapulco, Mexico—at a silent auction.

She has hosted two Lake Michigan reception/cruises for the SIU Foundation's President's Council on the Goeken family yacht and plans to host an advisory council meeting on the yacht as well. During her tenure as advisory council chair, she also plans to hold a reception for prospective SIUC students at the family farm in Oswego, Illinois, and a job fair for SIUC seniors in the Oak Brook area, where they can meet with Chicagoland employers.

In the past few years, Goeken Martis has made her offices available to Du Page County Alumni Chapter volunteers for a telefund campaign; has joined the President's Council; has contacted SIUC alumni in Thailand during a recent trip there; and has made financial contributions to COBA.

Starting to work in her father's business, Goeken Communications, right after high school, she holds an honorary bachelor's degree from the College of St. Francis in Joliet, Illinois, of which she is now a board member. She also serves on the board of Joliet Junior College. She is married to Paul Goeken Martis (1992), who is vice president for corporate planning for In-Flight Phone Corporation.

Paul L. Conti, vice president of Alexander & Alexander Inc. of Chicago, president of the SIU Foundation Board of Directors, and past president of the SIU Alumni Association Board of Directors, in nominating Sandra Goeken Martis for an honorary degree, cited: "her significant leadership in her chosen profession, as one of corporate America's outstanding women chief executive officers, and her continuing commitment to and support for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale."

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

Commencement

August 5, 1995

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into the Arena either by degree candidates or by guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Commencement

August 5, 1995

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Commercial Science

George M. C. Fisher

George M. C. Fisher, chairman, president, and chief executive officer of Eastman Kodak Company, has his roots in Southern Illinois. He was born and spent his early years in Union County, Illinois. He received a bachelor's degree in engineering from the University of Illinois at Urbana in 1962, and a master's degree in engineering (1964) and a Ph.D. degree in mathematics (1966) from Brown University.

From 1965 to 1971 Dr. Fisher worked at Bell Laboratories. In 1971 he joined Motorola Corporation as director of manufacturing systems, moving up in 1986 to chairman and chief executive officer. He is credited with the phenomenal success this Illinois-based telecommunications company experienced in the late 1980s and early 1990s, resulting in an over 400 percent increase in the value of Motorola stock. In late 1993 Dr. Fisher left Motorola to accept his current position with Eastman Kodak.

Since arriving at Kodak, he has radically restructured the company, returning the focus of its efforts to photographic and imaging systems and divesting it of chemical and health-care divisions. In recent years, the firm's leadership in the imaging field has been seriously challenged by such Japanese and European corporations as Fuji and Agfa, and his purpose is to bring Kodak back to preeminence in the field where it began over a hundred years ago.

Dr. Fisher brings his experience in the high technology field of telecommunications to bear on Kodak's traditional strengths in photographic imaging. He sees the integration of photographic and electronic imaging systems as an vital part of the new information superhighway. He is committed to maintaining and enhancing Kodak's leadership in the development of silver-based photographic materials as well as in the new digital future of photographic imaging.

In recruiting new management personnel to Kodak, Dr. Fisher makes use of close personal ties to CEOs of telecommunications companies like Intel, Microsoft, Apple, IBM, and Motorola. Kodak is engaging in joint ventures with some of these companies that will insure its future participation in imaging and communications networks. As this new industry builds, opportunities for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale graduates will abound.

The SIUC College of Mass Communication and Media Arts is also a tangible symbol of excellence in the areas of telecommunications and imaging arts.

The School of Journalism and the departments of Radio-Television and Cinema and Photography have long been recognized as national leaders in their fields, and the Broadcasting Service has developed a national reputation for excellence in many facets of public broadcasting. The Department of Cinema and Photography has received numerous film grants, workshops, and awards from Kodak, as well as a $25,000 Kodak Endowment Scholarship Award to support photography students.

In presenting the name of Dr. George M. C. Fisher, Gary Kolb, chairperson of the SIUC Department of Cinema and Photography, said: "Dr. Fisher has proved his ability as a leader in a highly competitive and rapidly changing industry. He is a visionary CEO who is leading Kodak back to a preeminent position in the imaging marketplace. He has close ties to our region and to the departments in the College of Mass Communication and Media Arts. He is a most deserving nominee for an honorary degree."

In recognition of his contributions to the communications industry, particularly in the fast-moving field of photographic imaging, and of his service to the region of his youth, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree Doctor of Commercial Science to George M. C. Fischer.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

May 10, 11, 12, 1996

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Arena or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Commencement

May 10, 11, 12, 1996

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Humane Letters

James R. Fornear

James R. Fornear of Marion, Kentucky, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Res-Care, Inc., is a distinguished alumnus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale (Bachelor of Science, 1960 and Master of Science, 1960). He has been a dedicated supporter of the University for over three decades and now serves on the board of directors of the SIU Foundation.

Fornear is the founder of Res-Care, which employs 5,500 people at 130 facilities in eleven states and Puerto Rico and provides services to the developmentally disabled, operates Job Corps centers, and offers home-care assistance. The name Res-Care is derived from the concepts of respect and care, the bases of Fornear's enterprise. Res-Care now has three divisions: one for persons with disabilities, offering residential support; one for the training of young people, which has a record of 80 percent job placement; and one for the homebound, which provides nursing and nutrition services and physical, speech, and vocational therapy.

James Fornear grew up in the small Southern Illinois community of Sesser. As a student at SIUC, he majored in education and rehabilitation and recreational therapy. One of his professors, Guy Renzaglia, now retired, who was then director of the SIUC Rehabilitation Institute, remains a close friend. In the 1980's Fornear helped establish a Guy Renzaglia Scholarship Fund for graduate students in rehabilitation, which he has since funded as a fully endowed scholarship. Through Renzaglia, Fornear met William Freeberg (Bachelor of Science, 1942), then chairman of the SIUC Department of Recreation, who had established a recreation camp for the developmentally disabled at Little Grassy Lake (now Touch of Nature). Freeberg persuaded Fornear to work at the camp during his school years. Fornear now supports an endowed scholarship in Freeberg's name and provides financial support for Touch of Nature.

Influenced by outstanding role models during his school years, Fornear has himself become a role model. Among those whose lives he has influenced is Seymour Bryson (Bachelor of Arts, 1959, Master of Science, 1961, and Doctor of Philosophy, 1972). They met thirty-five years ago when Bryson was an assistant director at Touch of Nature. Now executive assistant for affirmative action to SIUC Chancellor John C. Guyon, and a member of the board of directors of Res-Care, Bryson had this to say about Fornear: "He has not let success change him — he continues to treat all people with respect and dignity".

Fornear worked as a high school guidance counselor after graduating from SIUC, but missed his work with the handicapped and underprivileged. When SIUC was awarded a contract to operate the Job Corps Center at Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky, he went to work there as activities and development director. Dr. Bryson worked for Fornear there for several years. Fornear stayed on at Camp Breckinridge after the University's affiliation with the project had ended and decided he could manage such an organization on his own. With borrowed money, he established Res-Care in 1974 and was awarded a contract to manage the Whitney Young Job Corps Center at Simpsonville, Kentucky.

Fornear is also a member of the National Education Association, the American Association on Mental Deficiency, the American Camping Association, and the American Management Association. In 1988 he received the Outstanding Achievement Award from what was then SIUC's College of Human Resources, and in 1991 he was named SIUC Entrepreneur of the Year. He has agreed to fund a Medallion Scholarship in the Cornerstone Endowed Scholarship Program, recently established to attract academically able undergraduates to SIUC.

SIUC Vice Chancellor for Institutional Advancement J. Robert Quatroche, in nominating Fornear for an honorary degree, cited him "For significant leadership and success in his chosen profession; as an outstanding corporate leader who embraces human care and concern in his business ventures; and for his continuing commitment and service to, and support for, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale".

In recognition of his contributions to the field of education and rehabilitation and of his service to the region of his youth, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree Doctor of Humane Letters to James R. Fornear.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Fine Arts

Darwin Reid Payne

Darwin Reid Payne (Bachelor of Science, 1953, Master of Fine Arts, 1955) is a leading authority in the field of computer graphics, which is currently revolutionizing the training of scenic designers and the techniques and procedures that designers may use via computer to conceive, present, and document their designs, working drawings, and other preparatory materials.

His most recent work, Computer Scenographics, published in 1994 by the Southern Illinois University Press, will be followed by a work on computer-aided scene painting techniques. Letters from SIUC professor emeritus Marvin Kleinau; scenic designer Ronald Naversen of the SIUC Department of Theater; and the Virtus Corporation attest to Payne's expertise in computer-graphic design. Moreover, six of Payne's published works had already established him as a leading scholar and textbook author in his field of scenic design, and another book, which he coedited, reflects his ability as a playwright and illustrator. His books, all published by the SIU Press, have collectively brought national and international recognition to their author, the University, and the Press.

Payne's reputation extends to his artistic ability as a scenic designer. As a professional designer, his work has been commissioned by a number of universities and theaters. As a scenic designer and teacher of scenic design for the SIUC Department of Theater between 1957 and 1983, he created for SIUC audiences at least a hundred imaginative, practical, technically perfect, and aesthetically handsome settings for the stage. Since his retirement from SIUC as a full professor, Payne has worked as a free-lance designer and director for professional theaters and theater schools. He is currently an adjunct faculty member at Wake Forest University and at the North Carolina School of the Arts.

Beyond his publications and professional reputation, Payne made a substantial contribution to the University as an outstanding teacher, a gifted stage director with a particular interest in musical theater, and a highly effective chairperson of the Department of Theater from 1978 to 1982. Payne's plays for young people, such as The Strolling Players and his adaptation of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol, which have been produced at the University and elsewhere, demonstrate his skill and talent as a playwright.

It is not insignificant that Payne is a native of Carbondale, in Southern Illinois, and he returns home for several months each year to write. He is an outstanding product of SIUC, having earned undergraduate and graduate degrees in the areas of fine arts and theater. In his letter of nomination, Chair Christian H. Moe of the SIUC Department of Theater and an SIUC faculty member for 37 years, had high praise for Payne's accomplishments: "He has earned a sufficient reputation in his field as an artist, author, and scholar to merit nomination for an honorary degree in fine arts. He has my unreserved recommendation for this degree".

In recognition of his contributions to the world of theater and of his service to the region of his youth, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree Doctor of Fine Arts to Darwin Reid Payne.

Candidates for Degrees

The following lists contain the names of candidates for degrees, the granting of which is contingent upon successful completion of all requirements for the degree.

cum laude 3.5–3.74

magna cum laude 3.75–3.89

summa cum laude 3.9–4.0

The averages above apply to all work taken at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and in the case of transfer students to the total work as well.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into the Arena either by degree candidates or by guests. Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Southern Illinois University School of Medicine graduates wear gowns of maroon, the color of the university, with black velvet borders and bars, and soft, eight-point black velvet tams with green tassels. The lining of the hood is maroon with a white chevron and the velvet border is green, the color of the discipline of medicine.

May 9 and 10, 1997

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Arena or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Commencement

May 9 and 10, 1997

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Distinguished Service Award

Emma K. (Katy) Simonds

Katy Simonds, chairman of the board of E.T. Simonds Construction Company of Carbondale, has been an enthusiastic and dedicated supporter of our University for over four decades. A member of the SIU Foundation board of directors, she serves on the Foundation's executive, nominating, and development committees. She is currently a member of the SIUC College of Business and Administration External Advisory Committee and a board member of the Friends of WSIU-TV.

Mrs. Simonds' involvement in increasing private support for the University is extensive. She has been actively involved in the recruitment of new members to the Chancellor's Council, of which she is a founding member, and her personal financial support has earned her membership in the prestigious Delyte W. Morris Society of the Council. Her spirited involvement in and support for University activities ranging from the arts to athletics has earned her the respect and admiration of the University community.

Similarly involved in the Carbondale community, Mrs. Simonds is this year's general chair of the Jackson County United Way Campaign and was co-chair of the Carbondale Celebration of the Arts Chautauqua event. She has served as president of the Women's Club of Carbondale, co-chair of the Jackson County Red Cross, director of the Carbondale Civic Center Authority Board, and chairwoman of the Artrain Steering Committee. She was a key volunteer in the $1 million Memorial Hospital of Carbondale fund drive.

Among the many organizations in which Katy Simonds has been an active member are the Carbondale Memorial Hospital Board, special gifts committee of the Jackson County American Red Cross, Carbondale Clinic Center Authority, Quality of Life Services, Inc. Advisory Board, Southern Illinois Hospital Services Board, Southern Illinois Retirement Community Board, and the Carbondale Presbyterian Retirement Community Board.

In 1987, Katy and Eugene Simonds were named Citizens of the Year by the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, and this year, Mrs. Simonds received the "Woman of the Decade" award at the tenth annual Southern Illinois Women's Health Conference.

For her outstanding achievements, dedication, and tireless service to the welfare of the University and the greater Carbondale community, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the Distinguished Service Award to Katy Simonds.

Distinguished Service Award

Tom Blomquist

Tom Blomquist, a 1972 graduate in Radio-Television, is a very successful writer and producer in Hollywood. Upon graduation he joined the legendary Hallmark Hall of Fame television show. Moving to the West Coast, he joined the management team of Grant Tinker at Mary Tyler Moore Enterprises before signing a multi-year contract as a writer for Stephen J. Cannell Productions. He has recently been producing for CBS. He is a very talented, successful and busy Hollywood producer. Yet, over the last ten years, he has made significant time available to this University and to its students and has been the driving force behind the creation of Hollywood Studies, a very successful internship program in Radio-Television.

Since 1988, Mr. Blomquist has returned to campus every year to participate in Radio-Television Week, delivering seminars on Hollywood production, conducting a writing workshop, and working with students in establishing networks in Hollywood and within the profession. His production session usually goes on all day Saturday and always plays to a standing room crowd of students and faculty from many different campus disciplines.

It was during these sessions that he conceived the idea of a summer internship in California for students. The program, Hollywood Studies, commenced operation with 38 students in summer 1995 and continued with 56 students in summer 1996. It is an eight-week, hands-on internship that includes weekly industry seminars. The quality of the internships and the content of the seminars are the key to the success of this program. Mr. Blomquist has ensured both.

For two years he has dropped almost everything to help get this program up and running. He used his own industry relationships to line up exceptional internships with Chicago Hope; Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman; Walker, Texas Ranger; and numerous others. Mr. Blomquist also designed the weekly seminars and recruited the speakers. One such contact resulted in excellent media coverage for the University: the Los Angeles-based entertainment editor for the Chicago Tribune visited the program and filed a feature story in September 1996 that stimulated recruitment efforts and enhanced the image of the University in the Chicagoland area.

Hollywood Studies is but the latest of many enormous contributions Mr. Blomquist has made to this institution. He has helped chart a meaningful new course for our students at some considerable expense to himself. On his own, he has recruited and coordinated the involvement of other California alumni. The Department of Radio-Television named him Alumnus of the Year for 1994. His continuing commitment to helping students complete programs is a positive reflection on him and a tremendous asset to SIUC students.

For his commitment and service to the University and its students, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the Distinguished Service Award to Tom Blomquist.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Humane Letters

Nobuo Kumakura

Nobuo Kumakura, Mayor of Nakajo Town in Niigata Prefecture, Japan, is a man of vision whose bold leadership made the SIUC campus in Japan a reality nine years ago. Mayor Kumakura has worked hard over the past decade establishing a positive working relationship between his community and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The culmination of this effort has been the establishment of the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale Nakajo campus.

Through his ability to communicate the long-term benefits of U.S. higher education to the Nakajo Town and Niigata Prefecture, millions of dollars were invested to build the Japan campus. Classrooms, dormitories, faculty housing, a library, and the Illinois-Niigata Friendship Hall—with a bookstore, an auditorium, and a restaurant—were part of the construction project. Each year a grant is awarded to SIUC to deliver intensive English and core curriculum courses to Japanese students. The town provides all maintenance and support of the physical infrastructure. This represents four to five million dollars each year to provide an American education for Japanese students planning to study in the United States. Over 600 students have completed programs in Nakajo and transferred to Carbondale, where 334 have successfully graduated from SIUC. These students return to Japan to work in large corporations, teach, and serve as principals of high schools and presidents of colleges.

Now in the his last term, Mayor Kumakura is working with SIUC to design an academic program for our tenth year in Nakajo that will meet the challenge of future decades. Only six universities remain of the original 32 programs established in Japan nine years ago. Without question, the mayor's commitment to education and his leadership abilities will be the key to securing a long-lasting SIUC program in Japan.

During negotiations begun recently, he proposed a plan that would incorporate distance learning programs to reach high school students, preparing them to attend universities, and to assure our Japanese students a smooth transition into the mainstream of campus life in Carbondale. His ideas are innovative, and definitely speak to the future needs and expectations of students.

During May 1997, the tenth-year contract will be signed between SIUC and Nakajo. Because of the importance of this event, Mayor Kumakura will travel to Carbondale for a formal signing. Mayor Kumakura has worked tirelessly to improve the educational opportunities for his Japanese students in partnership with Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. This effort has moved SIUC into the forefront in international education and continues to reflect well upon our programming.

In recognition of his contribution to the field of education and of his service to Japan and the university, Southern Illinois University finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree Doctor of Humane Letters to Nobuo Kumakura.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Humane Letters

Philip Pfeffer

Philip Pfeffer, president and chief operating officer of Random House, Inc., (New York), has demonstrated outstanding achievement in his field and has exemplified continuing commitment to Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. He is a two-degree graduate of SIUC. In his present assignment, he is the lead of the world's largest English-language general trade book publishing house. Mr. Pfeffer is indeed an outstanding graduate of our University and has been supportive of the University over the years.

Mr. Pfeffer has expressed his pride in being the type of student SIUC traditionally has aimed to educate—one who could not afford college. Aware of the tradition of providing access to education through financial aid, he saw SIUC as his opportunity to get an education. He received an activity award scholarship, and that, along with student work jobs delivering the student newspaper and working in a residence-hall payroll office, supported him while he completed the B.A. degree in mathematics in 1965 and the M.A. degree in economics in 1966.

Mr. Pfeffer rose to his first corporate presidency at the age of 25. In 1968 he took a job as an economist with Genesco Inc., of Nashville, Tennessee; two years later he became president of one of the firm's subsidiaries, Genesco Export Company. In 1977, he moved on to the family-owned Ingram Book Company of Nashville, becoming its president and chief executive officer in just one year. Recast as the Ingram Distribution Group, Inc., the company added pre-recorded videocassette and microcomputer products to its trade-book distribution. Mr. Pfeffer is credited with turning Ingram into the world's largest distributor of all three products. In 1981, Pfeffer was named vice president, board member, and executive committee member of Ingram Industries, the distribution group's parent company. Ingram Industries was ranked by Forbes in 1994 as America's ninth largest privately held company, with annual revenues of $11 billion. The firm also has interests in barge transportation, insurance, petroleum equipment manufacture, and oil field services.

In addition to his success in the corporate world, he has served on boards for the University's College of Business and Administration, the SIU Foundation, and the SIU Alumni Association. In 1989 he received the College of Liberal Arts Outstanding Alumnus Award. His commitment to the University is reflected in endowments to benefit Morris Library and the College of Liberal Arts which he and his wife Pamela have established.

In recognition of his contributions and outstanding achievements in his chosen field of endeavor and for his continuing commitment to the University, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters to Philip M. Pfeffer.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

Commencement

August 2, 1997

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into either the Student Center Ballrooms or Shryock Auditorium either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world they will be inhabiting.

Delano E. Lewis

Delano E. Lewis, President and Chief Executive Officer for National Public Radio (NPR), is a true visionary. Coming to public broadcasting from the commercial telephone industry, he is emerging as a leader in the communications field as the various technologies merge. He is strongly committed to his work with NPR. He has proven his ability as a national and international leader in this rapidly changing industry.

Mr. Lewis received a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science and history from the University of Kansas in 1960 and was awarded the Doctorate of Jurisprudence in 1963 from Washburn School of Law. He is a member of the Kansas and District of Columbia Bar Associations.

In 1963, Mr. Lewis was appointed as a staff attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice. In 1965, he joined the Office of Analysis & Advice of the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. From 1966 through 1969, he served in the U.S. Peace Corps in Africa, holding positions of Associate Director in Nigeria and Country Director in Uganda. From 1969 through 1971, he was legislative assistant to Senator Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, and from 1971 through 1973, he was administrative assistant to Congressman Walter E. Fauntroy of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Lewis joined the C&P Telephone Company, a subsidiary of Bell Atlantic Corporation, as Public Affairs Manager in 1973. Subsequently, he held positions of increasing authority and was elected President and CEO in 1988 and 1990, respectively. In January, 1994, Mr. Lewis joined National Public Radio as its President and CEO.

Mr. Lewis serves on the boards of directors of Colgate-Palmolive, the Chase Manhattan Corporation, Apple Computer, Guest Services, Inc., Black Entertainment Television, and GEICO. He is a former chairman of the board of the Eugene and Agnes Meyer Foundation, a major philanthropic organization in the nation's capital. He is an honorary board member of Mainstream, a national board member of Africare, and an emeritus member of the board of the Washington Performing Arts Society. In 1991, he was named a co-chair of the D.C. Vocational Education and Career Opportunities Commission. In 1992, District of Columbia Mayor Sharon Pratt Kelly appointed Lewis chairman of the D.C. Youth Employment Advisory Council.

A participant in President Clinton's Economic Summit in December 1992, Mr. Lewis promoted a shared vision of economic revitalization for mutual benefit by American business and labor. At the invitation of Vice President Al Gore, Lewis serves as co-chair of the National Information Infrastructure Advisory Council, whose membership consists of business, industry and local government leaders. The NIIAC's role is to provide recommendations to the Administration on how best to develop America's communication network.

Mr. Lewis is extremely active in civic and public service projects and has served on the boards of trustees of the Catholic University, Mount Vernon College, Group Hospitalization, the United Negro College fund, the Capital Children's Museum, and the Greater Washington Research Center.

WSIU and WUSI-FM radio stations work closely with Mr. Lewis in their NPR programming. Mr. Lewis served as commencement speaker at the Spring 1996 Commencement ceremonies for the College of Mass Communication and Media Arts. In recognition of his contributions, outstanding achievements and distinguished leadership record, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts to Delano E. Lewis.

Candidates for Degrees

The following lists contain the names of candidates for degrees, the granting of which is contingent upon successful completion of all requirements for the degree.

An asterisk (*) to the right of the name indicates membership in the University Honors program (undergraduate students only).

University Academic Honors listed to the right of the name are as follows for undergraduate students:

cum laude 3.5–3.74

magna cum laude 3.75–3.89

summa cum laude 3.9–4.0

The averages above apply firstly to all work taken at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and in the case of transfer students then to the total work as an additional, but secondary qualification.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.

FIRST FALL SEMESTER
GRADUATION CEREMONY
20 DECEMBER 1997

The commencement ceremony is an important occasion not only for you but for other graduates, families, and friends. Although it is a happy time, it should not be a time of revelry. Your conduct at the ceremony should be dignified. Alcoholic beverages may not be brought into the SIU Arena either by degree candidates or guests. Security personnel will be on hand to deal with alcohol or other distracting objects.

Professional photographers will be taking a photograph of each graduate as they cross the stage. Each graduate will receive a proof print of that shot at no charge, and the opportunity to purchase additional copies.

Commencement

December 20, 1997

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

When its doors were first opened in 1874, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was a place where teachers and scholars believed that their graduates should be prepared to make useful contributions to the health and strength of society. This is still our intention. Outstanding departments, dedicated faculty, thorough and often inspired instruction, and a thoughtful blending of old wisdom with new knowledge have become the hallmarks of the University.

Because this is true, we can point with pride to our alumni, many of whom are distinguished scholars, business leaders, artists, and public servants, and many more of whom are essential to organizations and communities throughout the nation.

Knowing that classroom learning is only one facet of education, we help students learn to play through intramural sports, training in crafts, outdoor activities for individuals and groups, a variety of musical organizations; learn to help themselves through wellness education, physical fitness training, and counseling; learn to help others through fraternal, community service, political, and volunteer groups; learn to see and know their surroundings through hands-on projects, field trips, lectures, and excursions of their own.

In encouraging students to explore the avenues and byways of knowledge and experience, our aim is to expand their view of the world in such a way that, while they focus on the particulars of their careers, they will be able to see their lives and their work in the broad context of the communities and the world.

Honorary Degree

Doctor of Letters

Ralph E. McCoy

Ralph E. McCoy, Dean Emeritus (Library Affairs), through his personal and professional accomplishments consistently has brought honor and distinction to Southern Illinois University during his forty plus year relationship with this institution. His endeavors in building a nationally respected research library in Morris Library would alone be deserving of recognition, but Dean McCoy also brought credit and national recognition to the University through his research and publication in the area of First Amendment freedoms.

Morris Library remains to this date a testament to Dean McCoy's dedication and commitment. During his tenure, the Library became an innovative center for learning—among the first libraries to embrace automation. He created an Undergraduate Library designed to meet and to serve the special needs of undergraduates. He encouraged and supported the enhancement of the library's research holdings: for instance, the McCoy Freedom of the Press Collection is used heavily by undergraduate and graduate students on campus and by researchers world wide. The Library continues to be supported by two endowments for collection enhancement, which he personally established and enriched over the years. Under his direction, Morris Library proved to be a leader in community outreach, supplying books and audio visual materials for school systems throughout southern Illinois.

In addition, Dean McCoy was instrumental in the pre-planning of Lovejoy Library on the Edwardsville campus. He also assembled a law collection which exceeded requirements when it became the library for what was to become the SIUC School of Law. He is author of three volumes of a monumental bibliography of the Freedom of the Press, plus numerous other works on Theodore Schroeder, and the Open Court Publishing Company.

Since his retirement he has continued to bring recognition to himself and to SIUC. A testament to his professional standing is reflected in his selection "to help aright the ship" at the University of Georgia and Rutgers. Also, he served for two years as Acting Director for the Association of Research Libraries in Washington, D.C. He lives in retirement in Blacksburg, Virginia, but continues his activities in freedom of the press bibliography making his research available to researchers world wide via the Internet. Even in retirement, Dean McCoy is on the innovative edge of librarianship and continues to be in the forefront of the Library's surge to leadership in information access.

In recognition of this long standing commitment to SIUC, to its students, to its faculty and staff, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale finds it fitting and proper to present the honorary degree Doctor of Letters to Ralph E. McCoy.

Academic Regalia

The academic regalia, consisting of cap, gown, and hood, originated about the twelfth century and was worn primarily for warmth. Later, the material of the gown and lining and shape of the hood represented the economic and social as well as the academic status of the wearer.

In 1895, a commission of American educators established an inter-collegiate code for the academic regalia. This code, revised in 1932 and again in 1960, provides a comprehensive system of academic regalia for American colleges and universities. While the code specifies black gowns, foreign universities and a growing number of American universities have gowns of various colors.

There are three types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's. The bachelor's gown is untrimmed and has a closed front and long pointed sleeves. Women may wear a white collar with the bachelor's gown when no hood is worn. The master's gown is untrimmed, may be worn open or closed, and has extremely long, closed sleeves with an opening at the wrist. The end of the sleeves are square with an arc extending from the wrist opening to the square end. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed and has round, bell-shaped sleeves. There are wide velvet borders down the front and three velvet bars on each sleeve; the borders and bars may be black or the color of the discipline of the degree.

The hood for each degree has a distinctive form. The bachelor's hood is three feet in length and has a narrow velvet edging with little of the lining exposed. The master's hood is three and one-half feet in length with wider velvet edging and more of the lining exposed. The doctor's hood is four feet in length with the widest velvet edging and full exposure of the lining. Hoods are lined with the color(s) of the college or university conferring the degree. The color of the velvet edging identifies the discipline of the degree.

The black mortarboard cap is standard in the United States, although soft tams are worn at some universities. Tassels are usually black, except when no hood is worn, in which case the color of the tassel represents the field of study. Doctor's caps may have gold tassels. Upon conferral of the degree the tassel is worn on the left of the cap. Caps are considered part of the academic regalia and are customarily removed only during prayer, oath, or pledge, and then by men only.
